Some New Things for Spring

Don't Make Your Own Vest—

Until you have seen these new ones of metal brocade and those of braided linen! Then you'll never take the trouble to sew yourself, when such exquisite things have been made for you. Those of metal brocade come in navy or black with metal threads in gold or silver, and tiny metal bullet buttons for trimming. The braided linen ones have caught every whirl of Fifth avenue in their stitches, and show foundations of tan, navy or French blue, with very elaborate designs braided in, narrow braid. Stunning! Of course they are. Just the thing to give the last bit of style to your new suit. They are in the Neckwear Department, First floor.

"Matching" May Be an Old Sport—

But "matching" one's hat and parasol is a delightfully pretty sport, especially when both are made from Fantasi Silk in the exquisite color combination that this silk makes popular. There's one set showing deep blue and gold plaid, and another set of orchid plaid on a shimmering silver surface. The handles of the parasols match the silk, and on the hats there is no trimming other than a simple floral wreath. But extreme smartness is the result. The sets are in the Millinery Department, Third floor.

A Camisole of Black Lace Over Chiffon—

Is quite a new idea, and delightfully pretty to wear under a transparent blouse. The lace is lovely black Chantilly, laid over white chiffon, with a most modest V-neck formed of unlined lace. $5.50 is the price. Another New Camisole is a surprise of flesh tinted wash satin, finished with tailored hems, the kind that looks especially good for business wear. $2.50 in the Underwear Department, Third floor.

The Cunningest Hat for a Toddler

Is made of pink Georgette, shirred to form a square crown, with a brim of pink satin straw turned up like a little Dutch cap. A shirred chin strap of satin ribbon holds it securely in place, and over one ear dangles a darling bow of many long loops and ends. $15.00 is the price of the hat. To match it are little pink coats of crepe de chine or Faille silk, along with most modish lines. There are lots of other pretty things for toddlers in the Little Folks' Shop, Fourth floor.

An Item for Brides Only

When you are planning for the eventful day be sure that you have your veil draped in the most becoming fashion. Not only have we the proper kind of tulle for veils, and the greatest variety of orange blossoms for wreaths and trimmings, but we have also sample veils draped to show you just the effect of the styles. They are in the Millinery Department, Third floor.

When There's an Invalid in the House

Or even just somebody who likes to have meals served in bed, nothing is nicer than those little white enamel trays that are large enough to hold a breakfast set, and that have four legs to hold them securely on the Land of Counterpane. Although, of course, if you like you can fold the legs securely out of the way, for they are hinged. New trays have just arrived, priced at $4.50, in the China Department, Fifth floor.

You'll Need a New Fur for Spring

For not only will you want the warmth, but you'll also want that air of smartness that a handsome fur gives. And when you lay aside your top coat and come out in your new one-piece frock nothing will give a more stunning air to your appearance than one of those popular little fur collars that fit closely about the throat, fastening under an animal head and a bunch of fluffy fur tails. And these small fur collars are quite inexpensive, for a very lovely one can be had for as little as $19.75, in the Fur Department, Third floor.

They Came in Time for Spring Brides—

These attractive pieces of cut glass with such beauty of cut and design, and such sparkle and clearness of crystal that you'd think the price is as low as $5.00. There is a beautifully shaped orange bowl, a bit oblong and narrow, flower baskets with handles heavy enough to give you a sense of security when you lift them; pitchers of many shapes and sizes; bon-bon dishes; vases; salad and mayonnaise bowls, and an interesting assortment of cleverly shaped and cut pieces that you will want for your own table, or to give to an appreciative friend who also loves pretty things. Glassware Department, Fifth floor.

Easter China for Little Folks—

The kind that shows their favorite bunnies and chickens, and nursery friends in all sorts of cunning capers. Three styles are shown. One is a rather heavy porcelain in deep cream color, with a broad band of crisp green or soft brown about it, depending entirely on whether a chicken or a rabbit has had his picture put on it. Another style has gray little pictures that toddlers like to hear stories about. The third kind features a tapering pitcher with side handles for cream and a cereal dish. All three of the styles have the dishes that little folks need for any meal—cereal sets, egg cups, plates, cups with or without saucers, must sets, and ramekins. Some of them are but 10 cents each, and some of them are 35 cents each, or three for $1. Ask to see them in the China Department, Fifth floor.

Two New Books to Talk About—

Vicente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" (which many critics considered the best book of modern days), has written another story, "The Dead Command," which deals with man's struggles against the phantoms of the past, against the force of tradition and the subconscious influence of the dead over the living. Price, $1.75.

Hugh Walpole, whose stories "The Dark Forest," "Duchess of Wrex," "Fortitude" were so popular, calls his latest novel "The Secret City." The scene is Petrograd. The time is the coming and the bursting of the revolution. A love story mingles in the thrilling plot, which gives a penetrating picture of the world's menace today—Bolshevism. COURTLAND ELLIS CHANDLER DIES

Courtland Ellis Chandler, a patent expert and manager of the correspondence division of the Washington School of Art, died at his home, 1122 Spring road northwest, yesterday. Mr. Chandler had been ill for about a week.

He was the son of W. H. Chandler, a well-known Washington artist and director of the Washington School of Art, in which the son was a junior partner, and was the grandson of the late William Ellis Chandler, a resident of Washington since 1855.

Mr. Chandler was born in Washington twenty-eight years ago. He attended the public schools, and was later a student at the McKinley Manual Training School.

He entered the firm of Chandler & Chandler, patent attorneys, and for seven years was associated with the firm. He was an expert on patents and patent law.

He had been manager of the art school for only two years. Mr. Chandler is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lydia Copenhagen Chandler, twin daughters and a son; his parents and a sister, Mrs. Crandall, wife of Lieut. Col. S. H. Crandall, now with the American Army of Occupation in Germany.

COL. JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

Col. John R. Williams, the father of Mrs. Joseph Letter, of 1500 New Hampshire avenue northwest, died at the home of his daughter and son-in-law yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held from the Letter home tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. Interment will be strictly private.

Colonel Williams was sixty-four years of age, and retired from the army not long ago, after thirty years of service. He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Letter, Mrs. Dorothy Williams, Mrs. Combs, now in England, where she has been working with the foreign branch of the Committee on Public Information, and Mrs. John Ballantine Finley.

WILLIAM H. DENNIS.

Funeral services for William H. Dennis, well-known lawyer of the District, who died at his home in Willard Courts on Sunday, will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Matthew's church.

AARON COHEN.

The funeral of Aaron Cohen, eighty-six years old, a former Washington merchant, who died at the home of his son, Sol Cohen, in Pittsburgh, was held from the home of his grandson, Harry Cohen, 930 street northwest, a salesman for the Metro Film Service, this morning.

MRS. C. G. DU FIEF.

Plans are today being completed for the funeral of Mrs. Lavinia Du Fief, widow of Charles G. Du Fief, of Darnestown, Md., and mother of Joseph L. Du Fief, a construction division of the signal corps, and Louis B. Du Fief, an employee of the District Government. Mrs. Du Fief died at her home, 1437 Thirty-fifth street northwest, Saturday.

PHILIP A. CHRISTMAN.

The funeral of Philip H. Christman, well-known Washington real estate man, who died at Atlantic City Saturday, is being held from his home, 2825 Fourteenth street northwest, this afternoon. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Simms Christman.

CLAUDE R. ZAPPONE.

Funeral services for Claude R. Zappone, the well-known Washington sportsman, who died at his home in Wardman Courts, will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from Gawler's chapel, 1730 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Mgr. Mackin will officiate.

CONGRESS TO PROBE STEEL PRICE 'FIXING'

Fixing of steel prices by agreement between the great steel and iron producers, such as the United States Steel Company, and the Department of Commerce, will probably be the subject of an investigation by Congress.

Have Government officials enabled the big steel trust to obtain immunity from the Sherman law and obtain an immunity bath? This will be one of the questions raised if the inquiry is conducted.

Already, the question is being asked informally among members of the House and Senate. Talk of a demand for an investigation is heard.

Congressman Young of North Dakota, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture and now on the Ways and Means Committee, today declared there should be an investigation by the House Committee on Agriculture of some other competent committee of Congress.

He declares the steel and iron prices seem to be fixed at a high level to mean swollen prices for large numbers of articles used by the farmers, such as wire, binders, plows, implements in general, nails and so on. The result will be that the farmer will be paying high prices for the necessities of life, but all other consumers will be adversely affected.

"It looks in this case as if the big steel and iron trusts have been given an immunity bath," said Mr. Young. "They came here in the guise of philanthropists and gained immunity from prosecution under the anti-trust laws, with the aid of officials. The consumers have not been consulted. The announcement of the prices agreed on was so acceptable to steel interests that stocks soared when the news was forthcoming. Evidently the prices are so high as to insure the steel and iron interests fat profits. The farmer will have to pay high for his wire and his implements. Consumers in general will have to bear the burden of the high steel prices."

Hopes For Inquiry.

"I believe Congress should inquire into this matter, and hope it will do so. So far as steel and iron are concerned, it may be locking the door after the horse is stolen. In any event, the matter ought not to be quietly ignored for if it is, it is quite evident the same policy will be followed as to a large number of important industries."

Congressman Young in his statement is looked on as reflecting the views of the agricultural States. His constituency is largely composed of farmers. However, it is suggested that many other consumers of steel and iron than the farmers will be disposed to stir up objections to the price-fixing plan which the Government has adopted.

VIOLENT EPIDEMIC OF THIRIFNESS! —apparently raging on Ninth Street!

Hundreds of foresighted buyers are coming from every part of the city and district to take advantage of the marvelous reduction sale of trousers now being held at Friedlander Bros., 428 Ninth St. N. W.

This up-to-the-minute firm has recently made a most fortunate purchase from the Strauss Mfg. Co. of Baltimore, at prices ridiculously low, and are offering them to the public at a very slight advance.

The entire purchase has been divided as follows:

Lot No. 1, your choice of hundreds of Trousers formerly sold up to $5.00, at $3.13 a pair; Lot No. 2, your choice of all Trousers formerly sold up to $3.50, for $2.98 a pair; Lot No. 3, your choice of hundreds of Trousers formerly selling for $1.00, at $4.98 a pair; Lot No. 4, your choice of all $4.50 Trousers at $4.00 a pair.

There are hundreds of styles and patterns to select from, and in quality and workmanship these trousers leave nothing to be desired.

You'll be well-rewarded if you hurry down to Friedlander Bros., 428 Ninth St. N. W., and had your size before the best are sold—for at these prices they are going like hot cakes!

DENIES SHE IS ABOUT TO REMARRY

Mrs. OLIVE FREMSTAD, former member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, today indignantly denied the truth of a story printed in a musical periodical that she and her husband, Harry Lewis Fremstad, had been legally separated.

"There has been no divorce," said Mrs. Fremstad. "It is absolutely untrue. I do not know anything about the whereabouts of Mr. Fremstad, or what he is doing, but that is our own affair."

Mrs. Fremstad and her husband have been living 3,000 miles apart for some time, she here, and he in California.

The officers are powerless, according to Lieut. Comdr. Hugo W. Koehler, of the United States navy, who studied the general situation during six weeks' tour of Germany recently.

"We found the German ships in a most filthy state," said Commander Koehler, "both as regards cleanliness and preservation. They evidently had been put out of commission hastily, for there was no one whatever on board, not even a shipkeeper, although a few men, apparently squatters, were living on board simply for the sake of a roof."

"That the ships had been put out of commission in a most careless manner, and very hastily, was everywhere apparent, for although some attempt had been made to grease guns and working parts, the job had not been done properly, and guns were already beginning to rust, both inside and out. The ships that were in commission—for instance the new light cruiser Koenigsberg—were in hopeless condition, although they had large crews aboard."

"Before going on board we asked that the crew be removed in order to facilitate our inspection. The captain immediately gave the necessary orders, but the crew straggled up by twos and threes in a most desultory manner. Most of them were smoking the large cigars made of cabbage leaves soaked in licorice and tobacco juice, which are now very much the fashion in Germany."

"It required about half an hour for them to execute a simple order that should have been obeyed on the run."

LONDON, March 25.—Discipline aboard the German ships has gone to pieces, in the words of a German commanding officer. The men sulking under orders, move slothfully and insolently.
